Lenington Gardens

THE BEST IN HEMEROCALLIS

7007 Palmer Road
Kansas City, Missouri

INTRODUCTORY

As we of Lenington Gardens enter into another year of business made possible by the continued loyalty and support of our many customers and friends, we wish to thank these people not only for their patronage, but for their many letters of suggestions and compliment. We also thank them for recommending Lenington Gardens to their gardening friends.

It is our greatest pleasure and sincerest wish to serve our customers and we hope for the privilege of serving you.

We extend to you an invitation to visit our nursery. The map in the catalog will give you easy directions.

Please write us if there is a variety which you do not find listed. Each year we add many more varieties to our listing, but continue to grow large numbers of newer and scarcer varieties, which we cannot list because of insufficient stock.

We leave you with this reminder

When thinking of HEMEROCALLIS

THINK OF LENINGTON GARDENS

Alice and Bob

HEMEROCALLIS (Daylilies)

The spread of interest in Hemerocallis has been only natural, since it is a flowering perennial so versatile, it hardly knows limitation. Practically immune to disease or insect pests, it requires no frequent and burdensome spraying or dusting schedules. Its soil requirements are so minor that it may be grown in any garden area as a specimen or companion plant . . . and may be used in many double purpose duties such as living mulches around small or open foliated trees, for retention of terraces, edgings along drives or naturalizing. The blooming span is wide and may be made continuous from early spring until late fall by selection of varieties, and there is a wide range of height and color from which to choose .

PLANTING TIME may be anytime the ground is tillable, but spring or fall planting is recommended. It should be remembered that fall planting in northern gardens must be done far enough in advance of cold weather to allow the plants time to establish themselves in order to prevent heaving. It must also be remembered that newly set plants must have abundant moisture to insure new root development. This is especially true in cases of plants set in advance, or during, hot, dry, weather. Hemerocallis correctly planted and once established are quite capable of taking care of themselves, but do require the above considerations at planting.

SOIL REQUIRMENTS: They will thrive in almost any garden soil, provided the soil is not poorly drained or too heavily shaded and is of reasonable fertility. Daylilies, when given special consideration and care, reward us richly in performance and beauty. Printed suggestions and complete planting instructions are sent with each order.

FIRST YEAR RESULTS: No variety should be judged by its performance the first year. Only after a daylily becomes established . . . usually by the second or third year . . . will it produce characteristic bloom. Of course, no bloom or performance can be judged as normal during unusual or extreme weather conditions.

LENINGTON VARIETIES

"Bred in the Heart of America . . .

For performance throughout America"

For 1956 we are happy to introduce three of the many newer Lenington varieties, about which you have written and requested information. From observations made in our own gardens and those in other states (where our varieties are grown for test) we are assured of your satisfaction with the Lenington breed.

DOCTOR GUFFEY (G. E. Lenington) —

You will admire this bright, ruby-red flower with its apple green throat. A medium-sized, full flower with ruffled, creped petals and smooth, velvety sepals which are a little lighter color than petals. Petals and sepals both recurve. Excellent branching. Fine for front of border. 24 in. July. D. _____$10.00 Net

THURZA (G. E. Lenington) — A very large, recurving flower of red and yellow blend. Wide, slightly ruffled petals. Heavy substance and sun resistant. Well branched. Blooms over a long period. From a cross of Constance and Scarlet Sunset. You will enjoy growing this lovely flower in your garden as much as we do. 36 in. July. D. _____$10.00 Net

MIZZOU (R. L. Lenington) — A rich, velvety, dark red-purple. Ruffled petals are pinched and stand erect. Sepals recurve slightly. A small, golden yellow throat. The flowers, borne on stiff, erect stems, can be seen from anywhere in the garden. Admired and wanted by all who see it. Sun resistant. Said by many to be the best variety of its color. Stock limited. 30 in. July. D. _____$20.00 Net

PREVIOUS INTRODUCTIONS

BONNER CHARM (G. E. Lenington) — A low growing, very light Empire yellow self with wide, crinkled, slightly recurving petals. Sepals also recurve slightly. The 5 inch crepe-like full flowers are borne on 24 inch erect scapes, which make it ideal for the front of the border. Blooms over a long period. Acclaimed as one of the palest of the light yellows. June-July. SE. ----- $5.00 Net

LADY BONN (G. E. Lenington) — Light canary yellow flowers, that glisten as though they had been sprinkled with diamond dust. The blooms are more than 6 inches in diameter and are carried gracefully on 38 in. scapes. Flowers remain open until late at night. June-July. E. ----- $4.00 Net

GYPSY ROBE (G. E. Lenington) — Ruffled, slightly recurving, golden buff petals with a rich orange veining and a wide, light midrib which is very prominent after a day in the hot sun. The large greenish-yellow throat is topped with a choral-red eye-zone which appears only on the petals. The lower third of the stamens are the same shade of green as the throat. The flower is just as fresh looking in the evening as it was in the morning and has a lot of sheen at all times. Very well branched. 32 in. June-July-Aug. SE. ----- $3.50 Net

Planting Hint:

Select some evening blooming varieties for enjoyment at patio garden parties those summer evenings.

Planting Hint:

Try combination of daylilies with platycodons or phlox.

Planting Hint:

Edge and punctuate informal borders, liven those hedges of spring blooming shrubs during the summer months with planting of Daylilies in foreground.

We recommend:

DAYLILIES AND HOW TO GROW THEM

We recommend without reservation this new book on Daylilies. It is a complete and informative story on Daylilies, written for the home gardner. The book covers all phases of culture and propagation, and includes five regional chapters written by leading authorities. A valuable addition to your library.
